From Madness to the Masters, Nantz has front-row seat

By Ryan A. Berenz © Zap2it

One tournament ends while another begins, making this a great week to be a sports fan.

On Monday, April 5, college basketball's national championship tips off in San Antonio, and beginning Thursday, April 8, the Masters tees off at Augusta National Golf Club in Augusta, Ga.

One lucky fan will enjoy the best seat in the house at both venues. CBS Sports veteran broadcaster Jim Nantz has had the privilege of calling both events for the past 19 years. "To be able to have those two. events, back-to-back - tell me anybody who has it better than that," Nantz says, "and I say that being as humble and as grateful and honored as humanly possible. There's no better stretch of events than to have the national championship game on a Monday night and the next day, land at Augusta and walk the course, and mingle with all the world's best players as they prepare for the first major championship of the year."

The most renowned and storied tournament in golf, the Masters returns with coverage of the first two rounds on USA Network. Then, for the 49th consecutive year, CBS broadcasts the tournament's third and final rounds over the weekend. With Augusta National Chairman Hootie Johnson forgoing corporate TV sponsorship for a second straight year, the Masters will again air without commercial interruption.
